SUBJECT: SEPTEMBER IS OVARIAN CANCER AWARENESS MONTH
Time: 30 seconds

September is Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month.

Ovarian cancer has the highest mortality rate of all gynecological cancers because early symptoms often go undetected. It predominantly affects women 55 to 74.

Early symptoms of ovarian cancer include bloating, pelvic or abdominal pain, and urgent or frequent urination, but may mimic other ailments, so consult with your doctor.

Screening for the disease is difficult, but it can be detected through pelvic imaging. Early diagnosis can save your life.
