SUBJECT: SEPTEMBER IS OVARIAN CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

Time: 30 seconds

September is Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month.

Ovarian cancer is the fifth most deadly cancer for American women, largely because early symptoms often go undiagnosed. While there is no routine screening test for ovarian cancer, your doctor may use pelvic exam, transvaginal ultrasound or blood tests to diagnose any unexplained symptoms.

Your risk may be increased by obesity, increasing age and a personal or family history of breast or ovarian cancer.

Talk to your doctor about whether you're at risk.
