Getting Graphic: How Journalists Are Minding Multimedia

We know that journalists are increasingly focused on audience metrics and driving engagement with their content, so it makes sense that many are turning to multimedia to inform and extend their stories.

Not only do photographs, videos, audio clips, infographics and illustrations help contextualize a story, they add a visual or aural dimension that has been proven to increase consumer engagement.
Pitch-Worthy Press Kits Use Multimedia

Make your kit visually engaging

Multimedia Best Practices

Tips for Publicists and Brand Marketers

In addition to helping journalists with their stories, providing multimedia helps you express a narrative and visually represent your story the way you want. Without an image, video or other content to go by, media outlets may skim and move on.

Start with quality
High-resolution images are a must. Period.

Caption your content
Include captions and credits with all visuals (so journalists don’t have to chase you down for details) and make sure you’ve secured the rights to share any assets you offer up front.

Link, don’t attach
Not only do attachments eat up space, but many journalists also automatically delete emails that include attachments to protect against viruses (if those emails don’t already end up in the spam folder). Do everyone a favor and include links to a landing page, press kit or a cloud storage folder where journalists can easily find and download the assets they need.

Make them easily accessible
If a journalist has to register or get special permission to view your assets, you’re giving them more work to do and eating into their already limited time.

BOTTOM LINE

Do your homework.

Different companies will have different guidelines around multimedia submissions.

Take the guesswork out of what you can or should include by going right to the source. Most outlets will provide guidelines on their websites (link vs. attachment, file format and size, etc.).

If available, look at the pitching profile of the journalist to whom you’re reaching out—online or in a reliable media database—to learn their requirements.
Supplemental Content Ideas

What's more, 1 in 5 journalists (22%) explicitly say that publicists can do them a favor by including multimedia content in their pitches and with their press releases. More than half of journalists (54%) go so far as to say they would be more likely to cover a story if provided with multimedia.

Going by journalists’ most-used multimedia elements from the last half of 2021, images may be the fastest way to get out of journalists’ inboxes and onto their editorial calendars. Worldwide, 81% of journalists have recently used photos to accompany content. Video is also popular (47%), followed closely by infographics (41%) and social media posts (39%).

Which multimedia or data elements have you included in your articles over the past 6 months?

- Images: 81%
- Videos: 47%
- Infographics: 41%
- Social media posts: 39%
- Livestreams: 16%
- Web polls: 16%
- Brand logos: 15%
- User-generated content: 13%
- Quizzes: 6%
- Animated gifs: 6%

Although images and videos top the list across the globe, we did notice a few regional differences. For example, APAC journalists reported the highest usage of livestreams (28%), web polls (28%) and user-generated content (20%) among all regions. And nearly 20% of North American journalists included logos in their recent stories, compared to only 13% in EMEA and 4% in APAC.
Recognizable Branding
Adding a banner, description, website, social media accounts, and contact information makes it easy to connect with the company.

Focused Press Release
Posting at least one press release drastically increases your visibility, and it will be even more effective if it specifically mentions RSNA, as this one does.

Smart Supplemental Content
Video demos and brochures help build on the press release to continue to tell their brand story and provide additional information in alternate formats.

News Release Tips

6 Tips for Trade Show Press Releases

- Incorporate the event name into the headline or subhead
  Headlines should feature your company name and event name as it enhances the discoverability of your content.

- Feature a clear call to action
  Have a clear direction for what you want the readers to do next.
  GA link builder: https://ga-dev-tools.appspot.com/campaign-url-builder/

- Utilize multimedia elements
  Visual assets increase views and engagement of potential customers and the media.

- Use natural language and disruptive formatting
  Natural language and skim-able content helps win points with readers and search engines.

- Don’t forget about the booth link!
  Make sure interested readers know where to find you at the event!

- Take advantage of social media
  Promote your announcement on social channels and include the official RSNA hashtag #RSNA23
Determining the main goal you want your release to accomplish will help determine when to send it. Booth traffic = 1-2 weeks out.

If a larger company is making an anticipated announcement – avoid sending your news in the hours leading up to and after it.

Sending more than one news release can help keep your company top of mind and create excitement to visit your booth at the show.

RSNA is unique in that it starts soon after a holiday. It’s usually best to avoid sending your news Thanksgiving week (or at least Wed. Nov. 22) as some extend vacations.

When we went to RSNA we learned that more INTL attendees came on Sunday and US attendees waited until Monday due to the holiday.
Example of a successful press release

Study of GLEAMER Artificial Intelligence Software Wins RSNA Alexander R. Margulis Award for Scientific Excellence

• Company name and Event name in headline
  By putting RSNA in the headline this release comes up on searches that pair RSNA with the company name or key words like AI and award.

• Multimedia assets (photos)
  Including images with the release increases engagement and breaks up text.

• Quote
  Including a quote or quotes in your release increase chance for media pick up since it does some heavy lifting for journalists. They have the option to take a quote directly from the release for their article (which is done fairly often).
PR Newswire Visibility Reports

PR Newswire provides a Visibility Report for every US release, and most international distributions, at no extra cost.

Visibility Reports provide a high-level view of how your release performed online and with the media and show how users engaged with your release on prnewswire.com. PR Newswire also provides industry benchmarks to show how your release compared to similar releases in your industry.
