

RSNA Medical 3D Printing and Immersive Reality in Practice
April 25-26, 2025
Oak Brook, IL

Call for Abstracts

The RSNA 3D Special Interest Group (SIG) is accepting abstracts for the RSNA Medical 3D Printing and Immersive Reality in Practice. This course will convene physicians and professionals working in the advanced imaging and medical 3D printing industry. It will feature didactic lectures and expert demonstrations focusing on 3D printing technology, immersive reality, research and policy regulation in addition to a vendor exhibition area.

Policies

- Submission of an application constitutes a commitment by the author(s) to present if accepted. Failure to present and register for the course, if not justified, will jeopardize future acceptance of applications.
- Because this is an educational course, abstracts and presentations must be free of promotion/commercialization of products, must be HIPAA compliant and must consist of original work with no previously copyrighted materials, including images and media content.
- Presenters are required to register for the course. RSNA will not provide reimbursement for registration, travel or lodging for presenters.

RSNA CME Activity Disclosure

As the accredited provider of CME for this event, RSNA requires all presenters and individuals in a position to influence educational content to disclose any relevant financial relationships with commercial interests. If a conflict of interest is identified, it must be resolved prior to the activity. You can complete the RSNA CME activity disclosure at rsna.org.

Disclosure Refusal Statement

The requirement for financial disclosure from committee members, planners, reviewers, authors, and presenters is a mandatory element in maintaining ACCME accreditation for all organizations that provide continuing education (CE) activities. If an individual refuses to disclose, he/she will not be permitted to participate as a planner, committee member, reviewer, author or presenter.

Financial Disclosure

RSNA requires that the content of its accredited CME activities provide balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor. Planning and development of the clinical content and format must be free of the influence or control of a commercial entity and must promote improvements or quality in healthcare and not a specific business interest of any commercial interest (e.g., no commercial bias).

All RSNA accredited CME activities must be compliant with the ACCME content validation statements:

All recommendations for patient care in accredited continuing education must be based on current science, evidence and clinical reasoning, while giving a fair and balanced view of diagnostic and therapeutic options.

All scientific research referred to, reported or used in accredited education in support or justification of a patient care recommendation must conform to the generally accepted standards of experimental design, data collection, analysis and interpretation.

Although accredited continuing education is an appropriate place to discuss, debate and explore new and evolving topics, these areas need to be clearly identified as such within the program and individual presentations. It is the responsibility of accredited providers to facilitate engagement with these topics without advocating for, or promoting practices that are not, or not yet, adequately based on current science, evidence and clinical reasoning.

Organizations cannot be accredited if they advocate for unscientific approaches to diagnosis or therapy, or if their education promotes recommendations, treatment or manners of practicing healthcare that are determined to have risks or dangers that outweigh the benefits or are known to be ineffective in the treatment of patients.

Presentations must give a balanced view of therapeutic options by using generic names rather than trade names in order to maintain impartiality (e.g., use trade names from several companies, not just a single company). Educational materials that are part of a CME activity such as slides, abstracts and handouts cannot contain any advertising, trade names without generic names or product-group advertising.

Any individual refusing to comply with this policy and/or not disclosing financial relationships will not be permitted to participate as a planner, committee member, reviewer, author, editor or presenter of the accredited RSNA CME activity.

The ACCME defines ineligible companies as "those whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients." Further, the provider must be able to show that individuals in a position to control the content of an education activity, including committee members, reviewers, planners, authors and presenters, have disclosed all financial relationships with ineligible companies to the provider. Individuals in a position to control the content must disclose regardless of their view of the relevance of the relationship to the education. The provider must identify, mitigate and disclose all identified financial relationships to an education activity being delivered to the learners.

If you have or have had within the previous 24 months such a relationship or affiliation, you must disclose this information. Likewise, disclosure that no relationship(s) exists is also required. The intent of this policy is not to prevent an individual with a financial relationship from participating; however, in accordance with ACCME standards, RSNA has developed policies and procedures to manage identified financial relationships.

Sample relationships or affiliations to be disclosed follow (please note that mutual fund holdings need not be disclosed):

- Research Consultant, Peterson Pharmaceuticals
- Stockholder, Peterson Pharmaceuticals
- Speakers Bureau, Peterson Pharmaceuticals
- Research grant, Peterson Pharmaceuticals
